Destinos del corazón: The Search for a Home Among Many
By Yara Colon

An evening with filmmaker Patricia Montoya

About this event

This event takes place at 7PM on Thursday, July 22

In an age of constant movement and political upheaval, what is the significance of claiming "home" in a space? For queer immigrants, what does it mean to migrate, and to where? For those displaced in general, how do we make room for loves lost or found, for expansion, or for history?

Join us for a night of conversation, travel and contemplation of these themes through the stirring video-works of lesbian, Colombian-American filmmaker Patricia Montoya.

A border defying artist, Montoya traverses the bounds between the corporeal and cerebral realms and explores contradictions between queer and mundane realities. Whether reflective of psychic or physical spaces, her provocative narratives engender a sense of be(longing) and deliberate upon the transient properties of both memory and sense of place.

NOTE: As we at SMEF endeavor to purchase the Pink Lady, thereby giving the Sexual Minorities Archives a permanent physical home, we hope that these encapsulations of queer history and narrative inspire the urgency of protecting queer stories. Your donation towards this event will contribute to our Pink Lady Fundraiser as well as continued BIPOC programming at the SMA.
